

Beets

photo credit: Sarah Rypma

Fresh Michigan-grown beets are harvested late July to late October and are safely stored for sale throughout the winter.

Beets are a good source of vitamin C, and their greens are an excellent source of vitamin A.

Beet roots can be red, purple, golden, white or a mixture of colors.