

MSU Agriculture Innovation Day

Focus on Forages and the Future

Consumers know that good nutrition is the key to good health.

Dairy and beef farmers know that, too. That's why we're bringing together experts to learn about innovative practices for producing exceptional forages that efficiently and sustainably increase milk production and meat quality.

Join us while we talk about how healthy soils create better animal feed, and learn about emerging technology to improve animal nutrition to produce milk and beef more profitably.
